

Abstract

An anti-rewet fabric for a paper machine including a base fabric in the form of an endless loop. A fine porous layer is incorporated into the press fabric and is composed of split microfibers. 5 The present invention provides good anti-rewet properties and exhibits a reduced start-up period and controlled wear. The present invention is also applicable to other fabrics, such as fabrics used for 10 filtration.